

A Throwback - The Edwin K. Niles Collection

By Jim Weed

Since this was Thanksgiving week and therefore a short week for writing, layout and all the other things necessary to create the FML, I'm bringing a throwback article from a very early Ferrari Market Letter.

Volume 1 Number 26 was the last issue of the very first year. Dated December 18, 1976.

As we near the end of 2024 this article will either bring back some memories of how little was known about Ferrari, forty-nine years ago, or make you cry for not realizing where we might be today, forty-nine years later.

I bring you this article unedited, as it was published and written by Gerald Roush.

DECEMBER 18, 1976 VOL. 1 NO. 26

"THE EDWIN K. NILES COLLECTION"

Every two weeks, when it comes time to put together an issue of the Ferrari Market Letter, I am faced with the question of what to put on the "front page." On occasion there have been too many Ferrari advertisements to allow room for a front page article, but that excuse was proven ineffective--too many subscribers commented on the missing "lesson page."

I was almost finished putting this issue together, and once again was wondering what subject to apply some quick research to, when the following material arrived. It was too long to put in its proper classification, unless I did some heavy-handed editing. But I found the advertisements, in their original form, too entertaining to cut, and pressed for time in this holiday season, I decided to run them, uncut, on the front page:

1953 166 MM VIGNALE SPYDER, S/N 0272 M. Only 13 of these "Series 2" chassis with 4-throat carbs and other improvements were built. This one has a slick one-off body unlike any of the "standard" coachwork, and is in fine shape. A very reliable class racer (finished 3rd in the '53 Mille Miglia) and quite driveable. Can only appreciate from its $26,000 price.

1949 166 MM S/N 0012 M. This lovely car was rebodied by Scaglietti around 1958 and resembles a baby 412 MI! Now running with a strong 250 Lusso engine and gearbox, its performance is down-right frightening. A really neat showstopper. Same price range as 0272 M.

1952 225 SPORT VIGNALE BERLINETTA S/N 0170 ET. This is one of those gorgeous short chassis racers (the suffix "T" stands for Tuboscossa, the stiff racing chassis of the era), and has been lovingly restored with every nut and bolt off the car. This is the actual car shown in Clymer's Handbook and in Merritt's compilation of owner's manuals, and was the Italian Hillclimb Champion winner! Too exquisite for words. $27,500

1958 250 TESTA ROSSA, S/N 0716 TR. This one is a real fooler--rebodied by Drogo around 1963, it's almost a dead ringer for a GTO! Tom Mead used to own the original pontoon fendered body (Where are you now that we need you, Tom?). A new TR body can be built for around $10,000, giving you a $60,000 car. Or enjoy it the way it is. Now running with a stock 250 GT engine, but we're on the track of the original engine. In that same price range.

1954 500 MONDIAL PININFARINA SPYDER, S/N 0434 MD. I've owned this car for several years and still don't have it finished. Body is completely stripped and is now being readied for paint. Engine is back together (it was leaking water, but we thought we better go through it) and ready to install. Ex-Prince Bernhard, probably never raced, never abused, and being restored only because its value warrants it. All original-nothing altered or missing. Take it now for $22,000 or wait until its finished and pay that same price of $27,500.

Folks, the above cars, along with my 330 GT Michelotti Convertible, are just too much for me to handle! They are all the sort that are starting to take off in value, and I've priced them cheap to move at least 2, preferably 3 of them. Think: GTO's and V-12 TR's bring $60 thou and up when you can find 'em, a street model 212 coupe is up for $50 K firm, someone's asking $100,000 for a Daytona Spyder, ad nauseum. Look what they did with Dusenbergs prices; Ferraris are next. Bless you for reading this far.

Ed Niles, 3460 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles, CA 90010. 213-395-5121; Home 213-559-8760

If you had read these ads today, you would have called immediately and purchased all sight unseen. But, at the time these cars were not revered or seen as historically significant treasure.

Notice these cars all had some issue. Missing engine, modified bodywork, not restored, or at least not restored as we think of a restoration today.

S/N 0272 M as owned by Ed Niles in 1976

In 1976 there were few restoration shops specializing in high quality Ferrari restorations. Most repairs were done locally using local talent. Need paint? The local body shop was talked into the job. Body work was done using the material available and pounding sheet metal into the exact original shape was not always done.

Mechanically, there were no parts available. There were no specialty suppliers manufacturing components that had been out of Ferrari production for decades.

It would have been extremely difficult to properly restore an old Ferrari racing car. The knowledge base just wasn't there. But, as time went on, people did recognize the value of the car and began to spend the time and money to properly rebuild such cars.

Thank goodness.

So where are these cars today?

166 MM SPIDER, S/N 0272 M: Featured in the film The Racers, this Ferrari did race in the Mille Miglia in 1953 and came in 3rd in class. Largely original, it retained the original one-off bodywork. It was offered by RM Sotheby's at Retromobile in 2018 with an estimate of $3.7 million to $4.5 million. It was a no-sale. It has since been used for events in Europe.

166 MM, S/N 0012 M: Originally a normal 166 MM Touring Barchetta it was rebodied to look similar to a 860 Monza. It has since been returned to its original configuration with the correct engine and body. These cars today are worth $4 to $5 million.

225 SPORT VIGNALE BERLINETTA, S/N 0170 ET: Restored in 1974 it has since been restored again. Shown in 2013 in Germany at Schloss Dyck Classic Days in its original colors as when it competed in the 1952 Mille Miglia. Worth today about $2 million.

250 TESTA ROSSA, S/N 0716 TR: Sent to Argentina in 1958 it was damaged and rebodied into a GTO look-alike in 1964. After Niles, it was returned to the original pontoon-fender configuration. It has since regained prominence from the cloudy history and recently displayed at Casa Ferrari in 2023. Today's worth $10 to $15 million.

S/N 0716 TR before and after

500 MONDIAL PF SPYDER, S/N 0434 MD: Restored by Ed Niles this Mondial has led a quiet life since. Due to its originality, it was sold recently for nearly $4 million.

330 GT 2+2 Michelotti Convertible, S/N 6109 GT: Commissioned by Chinetti, beauty is in the eye of the beholder. Niles once claimed he would have to die with this car. Ultimately, he painted it from mustard yellow to a metallic Burgundy and was able to sell it. It has not been seen in recent years.

It is easy to see these cars have gained status and are shown at events or used as Ferrari intended. Well, maybe not the 330 GT, but the others have increased in prestige and value.

Today's prices may seem high, and it might be difficult to extrapolate what the future values may be. I would bet that fifty years from now, whomever is writing an article for the Ferrari Market Letter will look back on this article and wonder why at today's values every Ferrari was not immediately snapped up and purchased.

Manual Transmissions: A Primer

By Dom Miliano

While every new Ferrari comes today with a transmission that is filled with Formula One technology, there are still a lot of manual transmission cars out there and I was thinking that many of us may need a refresher on the care and feeding of a shift-it-yourself gear box.

The mechanical bits need some description so what follows makes more sense. The “clutch” is really a thing made up of a fly wheel, a pressure plate, a clutch disk and a mechanical thing called a throw-out bearing.

How this all works is really simple. When you press the clutch pedal, you “disconnect” momentarily the engine from the transmission.

That happens because the throw-out bearing pushes on the pressure plate. This pulls the pressure plate away from the clutch disk, so it isn't clamped against the flywheel – that flywheel is connected to the crankshaft and is spinning whenever the engine is running.

When you let up on the clutch pedal, the springs in the pressure plate clamp the clutch disk against the flywheel and the power from the engine gets sent to the transmission. Easy peasy!

My bona fides in this area are based on the fact that I have not owned a car with a “slush box” since 1968. In that time, I have never replaced a clutch for wear.

Several of my vehicles have reached over 150,000 miles with the original clutch working just fine. Fortunately, when I bought my first VW, I was taught by my first mechanic and friend, Joe Hein, his rules for proper manual transmission use.

First rule, at the traffic light, the transmission must be in neutral, and your left foot ... completely off the clutch pedal. Some people (ignorantly) sit at traffic at a light in first gear and the clutch pressed. That is a recipe for a shorter clutch and throw-out bearing life.

Second rule, keep your foot off the clutch pedal while driving and only press the clutch pedal when you have to shift up or down.

Yes, the temptation to rest your left foot on the clutch pedal is strong ... you want to be ready for a quick gear change! But for the best service life of your clutch components, I urge you to resist the temptation.

Even a slight bit of pressure on the clutch pedal puts some stress on the throw-out bearing and can cause slippage. That slippage will lead to premature clutch wear.

Third rule, when you are driving, do not rest your right hand on the shifter. I know, you have seen all the cool guys driving with one hand on the wheel and one on the shifter. They may be cool, but they are ignorant of how manual transmissions work.

Resting your hand on the shifter can put pressure on the gears and delicate parts called “synchros” or synchronizers.

A synchronizer is a ring placed between the driving gear and an internal part called a synchronizer hub. These relatively soft rings act, through friction, to equalize the speeds of the main transmission shaft and the desired drive gear.

All of this technical magic help mesh the gears more smoothly during up shifts and, more importantly, during down shifts. Without these vital bits, gears will grind.

Before the invention of “synchro-mesh” technology, manual transmissions were called “crash boxes” because of the grinding sounds made by drivers uneducated in the mysteries of mastering their technology.

Ok, there won't be a quiz on how synchromesh transmissions work. Just remember to keep your hand off the shifter until you have to actually make a shift.

Final thoughts – If you are a little rusty on how to start up without stalling, join the club. Overcoming inertia is the reason moving a manual transmission automobile forward is a bit of a challenge.

Newton told us that a body at rest tends to stay at rest so you will need practice to overcome inertia. The famous Skip Barber Racing School teaches a simple method to develop the muscle memory to learn how to start from a complete stop.

Step one – Put your car on level ground with a fully warmed up motor.

Step two – Put your right foot flat on the floor ... do not touch the gas pedal.

Step three – Press the clutch pedal full and shift into first gear.

Step four – GENTLY lift your left foot up as slowly as you can. If you do it gently enough, the car will roll forward. If not, the engine will stall.

Step five – Repeat step four as any times as needed until you can consistently get the car to roll forward in first without stalling. This will train your muscles on how to properly get going from a dead stop.

Once underway, watch the tachometer for your shift points. Press the pedal fully first, engage the next higher gear and immediately take your left foot off the clutch.

For a downshift, you will need to slow down before going down one gear. Brake, press the clutch pedal, shift down to the next lower gear and, as before, take your left foot off the clutch pedal.

Expertly driving a manual transmission car on a twisty, exciting road is a joy. Matching the gears to the undulations of the road while driving your Ferrari briskly is why you bought one of these great cars. Don't be afraid to try one of driving's greatest pleasures...

Dom's lesson of how to learn to drive a manual transmission automobile is accurate. I personally have taught many young (and older) people how to drive.

Manual transmission basics should be taught to everybody. My daughter, when learning how to drive, had to master the manual shift.

When this skill is learned it doesn't matter what the vehicles is: car, tractor, eighteen-wheeler, they all work the same.

The only thing I could add is once you have mastered the take-off you should then refine your technique to be able to use minimal throttle to get moving and then let the clutch out completely.

Slipping the clutch WILL shorten the life and cost $$$$. Always try to keep the slip time to a minimum.
